

Trixie & Francis: The Journey to Peace

“I am 13 years old. My father left us when I was 12,” said Trixie, one of Mother Joy’s children at the orphanage.

“My mother tried to provide for us, but we had a hard time. Me and my brothers and sisters were always hungry. And then my mother started to lose weight and get weak. We found out she had tuberculosis. Because we don’t have any money we just did the best we could and I took care of my brothers and sisters.”

“One day a social worker brought me and my brothers and sisters to Queen of Peace. We have a good life here. We have meals and a soft mattress for our bed. Before we had a harder life and had to endure it. Now we are taken care of and loved.”

“I hope more people will help the sisters so that they can help more children like us.”
